PREFATORY NOTES.

The First Census taken by the Federal Government—in 1790—was a very simple affair compared with the full business and other statistics collected by the census-takers of the present day. But such as it was, it is valuable historically. It gives the names of the heads of families and, under separate heads, the number of white males under sixteen, the number of same over sixteen, the number of white females, of free persons of color and of slaves.

Most of the names thus preserved are, with remarkable uniformity, to be found to this day in the same counties, cities, towns and precincts, showing the essential identity of blood of the present generation with that of 115 years ago. What changes are perceptible are due largely to the heavy emigration from this State, especially between 1820 and 1860, and not to the influx of new-comers, which has been small. North Carolina to-day has the smallest percentage of citizens of foreign birth, and indeed of those born in other States, of any State in the Union. Her increase in population is of her own original stock, and is due to its natural prolificness, enabling the State to overcome the enormous emigration which settled up so large a part of the new States of the South and Southwest. So heavy was this drain of emigration that in one decade, from 1830 to 1840, the population of this State increased only 2 per cent. in the ten years. There is scarcely a township in the States southwest, or west of this, which does not show a large per cent. of citizens descended from North Carolina ancestry. To these, as well as to those whose ancestors remained here, the publication of the Census of 1790 will be of interest.

Copies of the Census of 1790 were deposited in the court-houses of each of the counties then existing, but by reason of the destruction of many court-houses by fire, and the lack of proper care taken of these records in others, very few of these copies are now extant. Recourse was had to the copies deposited in Washington. To obtain permission to copy these, an act of Congress was necessary. Such an act was drawn by the writer and its passage through the Senate was procured by Senator F. M. Simmons, and through the House of Representatives by Hons. Claud Kitchin and T. F. Kluttz.

It was soon discovered that either by reason of the fires which destroyed the Federal buildings in 1800, or 1814 in the war, or in some of the transfers of archives, at the Federal Capital, the Census of 1790 for three important counties—Caswell, Granville and Orange—had been lost. The deficiency as to these counties has been supplied by copying the names and other data appearing on the tax-list of that period. The census of all the other counties is printed from the certified copy thereof furnished by the Federal Government.

The Index of this volume was compiled by Dr. S. B. Weeks, Ph. D., and is believed to be complete and accurate. It will not be included in the General Index, Vol. XXVII, which is also being prepared by the same accomplished scholar, and which will cover all the volumes—twenty-five in number—exclusive of the present volume.

EXPLANATORY NOTE BY THE COMPILER.

In using this Index it is desirable to remember that the names found in it are written and alphabetized as printed in the body of the text and not as modern usage would seem to demand. The same name is found under different forms and there are apparent blunders but the compiler has not felt at liberty to change these forms to what are seemingly correct ones. In the more obvious cases he has made cross references from the usual form to the one printed in the text. The user of this volume will do well to keep in mind variations usually found in family names and those possible from ignorance and bad spelling.

The compiler desires to express his acknowledgements for valuable assistance in the compilation of this Index to Miss Margaret A. Bingham and Miss Estelle B. Gregg who assisted him in proof reading; to Miss Lena Little, Miss Carrie Shank, Miss Amelia Rabinnovitz, Mrs. Fannie H. Cook, Miss Edith Sharpe, Mrs L. H. Sullivan and Miss Alberta Archias for assistance in the preparation of copy.

1,277 heads of families.

Memorandum Upon Census of 1790.

The Census of 1790 reported, as will be seen, the names of heads of families only. A copy of the Census for each county was filed at the court house therein, but owing to the destruction of so many court houses by fire and the want of care as to old papers in others, very few could be found. The only resource was to get copies from the originals filed at Washington. To get these the passage of a special act of Congress was necessary. This act, drawn by the writer, was introduced in the Senate by Hon. F. M. Simmons, who secured its passage. In the House of Representatives its passage was secured by the earnest efforts of Hons. T. F. Kluttz and Claude Kitchin.

The foregoing is an officially certified copy of the Census of all except three counties—Caswell, Granville and Orange—whose rolls at Washington had been lost either in the fires of 1800 or 1814 or in some of the many transfers of the Federal archives to new buildings. As a substitute a roll of the Taxpayers, listed in Granville in 1788 and in Caswell and Orange in 1790, has been taken from the tax lists therein and appears on the following pages:—Editor.
